

Data Privacy Notice (employees)

AstraZeneca and its group companies (“AstraZeneca”, “We”, “Us”, “Our”) may need to collect use or disclose personal data such as name, employer or via online tools registered information, where permitted by law.

AstraZeneca may process your image and/or video recordings as part of our security and identification process.

In the following paragraph we determine the manner, in which your personal data is collected, used and/or disclosed and managed in line with AstraZeneca’s Global Data Privacy Policy.

Handling of personal data

Employee photos, that are used for the sole purpose of creating access cards, are stored securely and will be deleted after creating the card.

Your name and surname are stored in the access list (authorization-protected folder) and the access system during the entire period of your employment and will be deleted four weeks after your employment has been terminated.

Video recordings remain available for 120 hours and (unless exported for investigative purposes) will be automatically overwritten by the system.

The access system registers and logs all accesses (log-ins). The log-in data of the access system will be stored and viewed in the event of an incident that entails a preservation of evidence. To ensure personal data protection, the log-in data can only be viewed by means of a two-factor authentication. In addition, all accesses to the access protocol are registered and archived by the system. The log-in data of the access system will be stored and viewed in the event of an incident that entails a preservation of evidence.
