

Inspiring, Giving, Sharing.

AstraZeneca and MedImmune support the Cambridgeshire community in many ways.

We inspire the next generation of scientists

"Volunteers from MedImmune have encouraged me to pursue a career in medicine."

Aman Johannes
STEM Inspired Student

200+ hours

spent on engaging young people in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education over the past 12 months.

160+ students have learned about the challenges in drug development through over 60 hours of teaching, as part of our 6 week Challenge Projects with University Technical College Cambridge.

We've reached nearly 700 children
across 12
primary schools

in Cambridgeshire through our Active Science programme with Cambridge United Community Trust.

We directly engaged with 500+ people

at Cambridge Science Festival, through fun interactive science displays and activities.

"STEM volunteering is one of the most rewarding things scientists can do, they get out there in the community – it shows that spark that you can inspire in the children when bringing real science into their classroom."

John Elvin
STEM Outreach Co-ordinator

"We have seen a real surge in interest from life sciences ventures. Ever since we announced that AstraZeneca was partnering with us, the enthusiastic response we received was incredible."

Hanadi Jabado
Executive Director of the Entrepreneurship Centre at the Cambridge Judge Business School

270+ hours

spent mentoring over the past 6-12 months.

We give confidence & knowledge to businesses through mentoring

"Most people that I mentor are looking for commercial knowledge, but I end up learning as much from them as I hope they learn from me."

Steve Twait
Business Mentor, AstraZeneca

65 mentors

actively help UK biotech entrepreneurs and students advance their business ideas.

75+ start-ups

have benefited from our Accelerate Cambridge programme with Cambridge Judge Business School.

We allocate 1 day

a year of office time for each of our 2000+ staff to working with charities and organisations across the community.

We share our time with the local community

"The benefit of working with AstraZeneca, is that we get lots of tasks done that we wouldn't normally do in a working week."

Mark Cornell
Charity Leader

1570+ hours

spent on volunteering in 2017.

"Volunteering offers us a powerful way of putting much-needed time and expertise back into the local communities where we live and work."
